

a first entry in the first block is indexable by K1 bits following the segment portion of the IP destination address, and the second entry in the second block is indexable by K2 bits following the segment portion of the IP destination address.